GREAT GOLFING AMATEURS.

TO START FOR THE ANNUAL CHAM-IONSHIP THIS WEEK AT SANDWICH. Vardon's Estimate of Our Players Not Warranted by the Facts—A Record Made at yestbrook by Hollins, Jr.—Capt. Hinds Evolves a New Form of Competition. The amateur golf championship of Great Britain will be decided over the links at Sandich at match play, this week. On the day before the championship begins the annual score match for the St. George's vase will be sted. Tait won this trophy last year and was the runner up for the title of amaour champion, which John Ball, Jr., won after an extra hole. The one fault of this event abroad is that too many This makes the play wearisome intil the duffers are weeded out. The golfers f Great Britain never have adopted the qualifring round, but that they might well do so is wn by the fact that the first sixteen to faish for the St. George's vase always have been the chief factors in the amateur champlenship. How good our amateurs are in comrison with the noted ones of Great Britain is question that is often asked. Vardon says that men like Hilton could give Findlay Douglas a third and beat him, but Vardon is not inallible nor is Findlay Douglas the best solfer in our country. Harriman beat him essily at Onwentsia in the last amateur champlonship, and there are others who have taken pionship, and there are others who have taken his measure. East, West, North and South, are each sending out good amateurs, but it is doubtful if any of the lot are in the class with R. C. Watson and H. B. Hoilins, Jr. A. Boston player, Z. A. Shaw, beat Hoilins, Jr., at Newport last summer, but in most cases Hoilins, Jr., would beat him handily. The two may be said to outclass Findlay Douglas. The fact that Tait is dead, having been killed in the South African War, and that John Bail, Jr., is to the front as a volunteer, has made this year's championship an open one.

It is probable that Messra. Hollins. Jr., and Watson will play their best ball against Verdon on his return. It will be remembered that the sair at Ardaley last fall absolutely smothered all heir competitors in the best ball tournament, and also made the new record for the course of 2. Hollins, Jr., is playing better and steadler off than ever before. With Griffiths, the Westgook Tyro, as the pagency he has been delay golf than ever before. With thinks, the been doing the Westbrock course in splendid style. On May 8 Hollins, Jr., cut the record by a stroke making the following remarkable score:

Arthur Hinds, captain of the Richmond Hill Golf Club, has thought out a competition on decidedly orizinal lines. Members desirous of competing have only to deposit in the box, upon the date when played, a score-card for each continuous eighteen-hole roundplayed with a fellow-member and duly attested by him. There are no conditions as to when the round may be played. The prizes are three cups presented by George Daniel Seib.

The following events for the month are announced by the Golf Committee of the Marine and Field Club:

May 12-Opening of summer greens and new byles.

Memorial Day prizes, thirty-six holes, medal handleap. On June 6, 7, 8 and 2 the second annual Con-necticut State Championship meeting will be held on the Wee Burn links.

Bay Side, May c.—Waiter J. Travis won the coff ball swepstakes which was held at the Oakland Goif Club yesterday and to-day, loons out, Travis played fine gott. He made tonic out, Travis played fine golf. He made this round in 37 strokes, which equals Vardon's best performance in his four rounds on April 22, best performance in his four rounds on April 22, best performance in his four rounds on April 22, and his performance in his four rounds and Douglas. W. G. Barnwell, the professional distinguished himself by scoring two 3s on the eighth hole, 327 yards. Both times he made eighth foot puts. He had as his opponent M. M. Graham. Travis's card was as follows:

Of the eighteen competitors the following even returned cards: Gross. H'cap. Net.

Conditions which affect real estate values are often of a nature which would scarcely cause one to think of any likely connection between them and the advancement in prices of consider the automobile as a cause for intaight reach a given location quicker by such ford car stables last week to the General Carriage Company, which will build a combination apartment and business block, in fored, brought the subject to the attention of those interested in realty. It was not alone the fact that the projected imunobjectionable qualities as compared with horse vehicles. This leads to the hope that ome day persons who buy property and improve it with a costly building will not barased with the fear that some one on which to construct a stable for horses, with all the attending noise and orders. In a city with excessive values of land such as prevail can not be passed over as visionary. Of course, no one thinks that the horse will go entirely, but it is possible that the housing of them in residence neighborhoods will become much less common than it is now. And it may be that, in time, when the horseless vehicle shall become more commonly used and when values of real estate are much higher than they are now, legal restrictions will be made against housing horses

The price which was named in connection with the sale of the Sixth avenue stables was $1,000,000. It was, as was pointed out last week by a writer on real estate matters, an instance of the remarkable growth of the unearned increment in New York realty. In 1862 the land was sold for $30,000. Other property in the section has kept company in the advance in value. The movement of business northward has been so rapid that the section of the city around scarcely felt the increase in price which must prevail when Forty-second street becomes, as scarcely feit the increase in price which must prevail when Forty-second street becomes, as property owners along its line declare will be the case, one of the most important business streets in the city.

The improvement in the real estate market was again apparent last week in the transfers of property recorded at the Register's office. As may be seen by the tabulated doings of the week as published below, the improvement was substantial over that of the week before, which was in turn an improvement over preceding weeks. It has been a steady improvement which apparently has not yet reached its limit Furthermore, money is freer and loans can be obtained with greater case. One loan was made at 3% per cent, last week.

The auction market will prove interesting this month, as there are many sales of first-class property, including that of the lots left unsold of the old Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum property, which is the most important offering listed. It will be interesting to see what price these lots will bring at auction, for that disposition of such land is unusurd. The sale will be awaited with eagerness and watched with interest when it does come, which will be on May 16.
